

What is Missing?

ANSWERS

Fluoridation of drinking water is a public health measure that helps prevent tooth decay. It is a simple and effective way to improve oral health. The process involves adding a small amount of fluoride to the water supply. Fluoride is a naturally occurring mineral that is essential for strong teeth. It helps to strengthen the enamel and prevent cavities. Fluoridation is a safe and effective way to ensure that everyone has access to fluoride. It is a public health measure that has been shown to reduce the prevalence of tooth decay. Fluoridation is a simple and effective way to improve oral health. The process involves adding a small amount of fluoride to the water supply. Fluoride is a naturally occurring mineral that is essential for strong teeth. It helps to strengthen the enamel and prevent cavities. Fluoridation is a safe and effective way to ensure that everyone has access to fluoride. It is a public health measure that has been shown to reduce the prevalence of tooth decay.